Balance

Science tells us that nothing can be greater than the sum of its parts.

But consider, however, the perfection of a snowflake. Because of the symmetry, lace-like intricacy, and uniqueness of its design, a snowflake is far more than the simple drop of water from which it was made.

Like anything in nature, each of us is also a mixture of component parts, of form and function. What is anyone but an amalgamation of the intellectual and the athletic, of the serious and the spontaneous, of the artistic and the pragmatic, and of the physical and the spiritual?

From such a fusion of seemingly contradictory qualities comes each one of us. But we are more than just "students," "athletes," "artists," or "workers": like the snowflake, we attain our own degree of perfection in the unique configuration of our component parts.

It is when we come to understand that each of us is an arrangement of talents and dreams, all merging together in varying amounts, that we begin to appreciate the importance of . . .

Pom-Pons

Ninerettes are Number One

The Andrean Ninerettes dazzled crowds wherever they went. Practices paid off for the squad. The girls won first place at the Purdue University "Dancz America" summer camp. In addition, poms won the annual Southlake Mall Pom-Pon competition, defeating ten area high school squads to obtain the regional title. Ninerettes not only provided school spirit at the games and pep assemblies, but also entertained audiences with original routines choreographed by their captains Jenn Oates, Zandra Mukes, and Meggan Chaseley. Their moderator is Miss Gina Shropshire.

Cheerleaders

Hanlon and Lehner in Top Ten

Cheerleaders are an important part of school spirit at Andrean. In rain, sleet, or snow, the girls are always there to cheer the team on and lead the student body at pep assemblies. Besides inspiring crowds with their acrobatics and mounts, they also participate in competition. The varsity squad received third place at the Valparasio University USCA camp. Capt. Nikkl Tomecko, Stephanie Hanlon, and Andrea Szaller won the ASCA-All American Award. Stephanie Hanlon also received the Top Ten Cheerleader Award.

The Junior Varsity squad also performed well at camp, finishing in second place. Cheryl Lehner received the Top Ten Cheerleader Award. Their moderator is Miss Merri Kopil.

Soccer

Team Sets Goals and Standards

First-year head coach Mr. Peter Reist described the soccer team best when he said. "The strength and consistency of the seniors, and the development of the sophomore group, as well as the overall character of the squad, made my first year at Andrean one I'll always remember. This team set standards and goals for all future teams to strive for." The team began the season with a loss against Hammond Morton, but rebounded by remaining unbeaten for the remainder of the season. The highlights of the season were a 1-0 win against top-ranked Portage and a 0-0 tie against Valparaiso. The first Andrean soccer team to be undefeated in conference play was led by MVP Mike Samaniego, a junior midfielder, the "four horsemen" defense of Tom Anderson, Mike Sur. Tim Hutchens, and Dennis Billena, and the goalkeeping of John Kerr. Most Valuable Offensive Player, Dan Hruskoci, Best Mental Attitude winner, Oat Sinchai, and Most Improved Players, Mark Mirro and Peter Reist, also made significant contributions to the team.

Successful Year for Niners

A young and determined team gave Niners a successful basketball season. The team had a regular season record of 15-3. Led by Most Valuable Player Brandon Brantley, who scored 16 points per game, and guard Mike Lustina, who led the team in free throw percentages with 76%, Niners displayed impressive wins against Gary Wirt, Lowell, Merrillville, and a double overtime victory against Lake Central.

In Sectionals, the Niners handily defeated Hammond Morton and then beat Hammond Gavit with a last second over-the-backboard shot by Mike Lustina.

Niners balance work loads

The jobs teenagers have these days

McDonald's, unsurprisingly, is the institution employing most Andrean students. Dairy Queen and the local Cinemas utilize the Niners' help to a great extent. Many students have uncommon jobs. From a lifeguard, to a pharmacist's aide, to a private tutor, to a lumber piler, if there is a job available, an Andrean student will find it. One anonymous student even commented that his job was "selling calendars."

The places Niners' money is spent are even more interesting. Most of them spend their hard-earned money on clothes, food, gas, and tapes. Of course, the seniors put a significant amount into the bank for college funds. Health club memberships, insurance, vacations, and guitars were popular among the Niners too.

The average Andrean student works fourteen hours a week, over a four day period. Although some students do not have a minimum number of hours to work, others are not as fortunate. Brian Barney, who works at Cafe Venezia, has to work 40 hours a week, which makes him appreciate his money.

While some work with friends, some do not. Meredith Sattler commented that at first she did not work with friends, but now she has made new friends through her job at Au Coton in the Southlake Mall. Although bosses seem to be a big problem according to Mike Leka and Scott Conners, most workers do enjoy their jobs. Al Mance said, "Lifeguarding is the most excellent summer job. You sit in a chair, getting the sun, watching girls, and you get paid for it. Top that." Paul Halfman, who works at the Star Plaza, eets paid to watch performers.

Experience and reponsibility play a large role in the attitudes students exhibit toward their jobs. Lori Laco, who works at McDonald's, said that having a job gives her a sense of responsibility and prepares her for the real world. Chantal Foster works at Shellbourne Retreat Center. She said that having a job helps her plan her time and assume more responsibility. Susan Bobruk works at Walgreens where she learns new skills to prepare her for her future as a pharmacist. Finally, Bert Kullerstrand believes that working at Bonne Femme Cafe alleviates the pressure put on parents by their children for money.

Although the majority of students would probably choose not to work, jobs do enable them to enjoy their teen years in the best way possible; they learn responsibility, make money, and meet new friends.

In their last year as Niners, the seniors chose the following classmates as their Senators: Tiffany Clark, Dan Dhana, Emix Dial, Mike Martinez, Tom Podnar, Lisa Reeves, Ramesh Unni, and Carl Wolf.

The juniors assumed their roles as upperclassmen with the following Senators: Meridith Compton, Ariel Elvambuena, Chantal Foster, Nina Gomez, Lynn Grogan, Karen Koznicki, Lori Laco, Meredith Sattler.

Happy to know their way around, the sophomores chose the following to be their Senators: Leo Doumanian, Liz McMahon, Tony Mako, Roxanne Sakes, Sabath Smith, Craig Stafford, Nicole Taylor.

Working with moderators Mrs. Hevel and Mrs. Bosak, the Council organized and sponsored a full calendar of student events, from the freshman picnic to Armaceddon.

The Senators prepare to debate the latest issues.

Beth Townsend and Leslie Vegter send Christmas cards through the mailbox.

Keeping In Touch

Andrean is a melting pot; students from all over the area attend this institution. As a result, many people are aware of the outstanding academic record, the infamous uniforms, and the disciplined manners, but what most outsiders don't know is that these students need a big wallet to pay their outrageous phone bills every month.

Alexander Graham Bell has become the Andrean student's best friend since everyone needs to communicate with others by telephone. However, this communication poses a straining problem to both kids' and parents' bank accounts. Someone from Hobart who has a best friend in Valparaiso may find it necessary to call quite often. Every minute costs, and it all adds up to a tremendous amount at the end of the month. Maybe someone from Schererville is assigned to a group project with people from Gary, Munster, and Portage. In this case, it would be a lot easier just to drive to see the others instead of calling. But these times have produced a generation who needs things to come easier and faster to them.

A Year of Changes

The Art Club continued its tradition of generosity by sponsoring a new fundraising drive to benefit Wyler's Children's Hospital. Members and friends of the Art Club worked together to raise money to purchase new VCR's for the seriously ill children treated at the hospital.

Faculty Fathers

Three members of the faculty are taking a new try at fatherhood this year. They are Mr. Listro, father of a daughter Caitlin, and Mr. Parroquin, father of a son Eduardo. Mr. Fech as well is interested in fatherhood of a different sort — the priesthood. He has taken his first steps toward joining the Basilian order.

Students Strike Back

Students faltering under what some termed an overly-stringent grading scale breathed sighs of relief in the fall of 1989 when an updated form of the old scale was initiated. The new scale is similar to those in use in most public schools, allowing a student to receive higher letter grades for lower percentage totals. Unfortunately for those students expecting an easier time because of the new scale, most teachers responded to the new scale with proportional adjustments in the difficulty of their tests.

Freshmen Beat the System

Freshmen, who have been asking for better treatment for a long as anyone can remember, finally made headway with the administration this year, getting permission for the first time to attend the annual Turnabout Dance. Upperclassmen were somewhat shocked by the decision, but all feelings of injustice waned as only a handful of the victorious feshman couples actually made it to the dance.

Teacher of the Year

Mr. John Szot was named by Inland Steel as the Teacher of the Year for 1990. Mr. Szot teaches geography and sophomore world history. He also coaches the golf, Academic Superbowl, and Academic Decathlon teams.

AHS Year

TOP: The boys' tennis team as a whole had an eventful season during which several individual players distinguished themselves with some top-notched playing. Most notable among these was sophomore Jun Jao, pictured here with Coach Klora and teammate Brian Rosta. Jao finished in the final I o singles players in the state.

CENTER: Wrestler Bob Heckler had an especially good year, qualifying for semi-state. Bob, a senior, will leave behind him a young and promising wrestling team.

ABOVE: The baseball team finished the season ranked 10th in the state.

Andrean's upstairs hallway was once again the scene of great political struggle as a new race for the presidency was undertaken by members of Mr. Horvath's spring semester government classes. Pictured here is a scene from the nominating convention, an affair at which Democrats were obliged to remain standing for upwards of five hours while attempting to decide on a proper candidate. Despite their efforts, the Republicans won the presidency in the end.

Andrean's Decathlon team was successful at both the regional and state levels this year. The team placed a easy first at the regional competition, taking firsts in each of the ten events. For the second year in a row, the team took a third place at the state contest. Individual members received high honors at both the state and regional levels. Pictured here from left to right are team members Jennifer DuBois, Pat Duffy, Kelley Arnold, Emix Dial, Kysha Armour, Jeff Foley, Jon Heuring, Eric Marcyjanik, and Ramesh Unni.

On November 1, 1989, senior Matthew Staley died. He had been involved in all sorts of activities, ranging from the school plays to the Art Club and even to this yearbook. He attended many school functions and a school trip to Canada, and was widely known as someone who knew how to have fun and to make others laugh. His presence has been greatly missed.

A Year of Changes

Breaking Down the Wall

The Berlin Wall, a symbol of East-West tensions since it was first raised by the East Germans in August, 1961, was dismantled as part of a New Year's celebration of political reform. Earlier, in October, long time East German Communist Party leader Erich Honecker had been removed and then replaced by younger, more progressive Egron Krenz. Upon assuming office, Krenz reiterated a comment made earlier by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev: "We have to react to the times, otherwise life will punish us."

Webster Case Boosts Pro-life Cause

The U.S. Supreme Court, in a sharply divided 5-4 decision announced in July, put new restraints on a woman's right to have an abortion. In the case of Webster v. Reproductive Health Services, the Court upheld a Missouri law barring public employees from performing abortions unless the mother's life was endangered and forbidding abortions in public buildings. Pro-lifers regained hope in their fight to overturn the 1973 Roe v. Wade decision.

Freedom in the Eastern Bloc and Baltic States

Poland, Hungary, and Rumania are among the Eastern European nations that have experienced revolutionary change. Under the guidance of Lech Walesa and others, a new Solidarity dominated government was formed in September, 1989, in Poland. Hungary underwent constitutional reform and, having cut down the barbed wire fence on its border with Austria, became a major passageway for East Germans fleeing to the West. Rumanian leader Nikolai Ceaucescu, along with his wife, was executed and his Communist government supplanted with a republican one.

Strong independence movements began in the Baltic States as well. Lithuanians declared independence from the Soviet Union despite Soviet threats. Soviets retaliated by cutting off supplies of energy sources. The Soviets were cautious yet not unresponsive to calls for reform in Latvia and Estonia.

Change in South Africa

In August, President P.W. Botha resigned as President of South Africa after a bitter political confrontation. Later, eight prominent black nationalists, seven of whom were affiliated with the African National Congress, were released from prison after having served many years. They called for the release of black nationalist leader Nelson Mandella. Several weeks later, Mandella was finally given his freedom by the South African government.

Noriega Falls

After one failed coup attempt in October, the Panamanian government, led by General Manuel Noriega, was finally toppled with U.S. support. Noriega, under indictment in the U.S. for drug trafficking, attempted to evade U.S. law enforcers by seeking asylum with the Catholic Church. After much pressuring, however, Noriega left his place of asylum and was taken into custody by U.S. officals.

Powerful Earthquake Hits California

The second worst earthquake in U.S. history, exceeded only by the 1906 San Francisco quake, struck the San Francisco gas ay area on October 17, 1989. The quake registered 6.9 on the Richter scale, lasted for 15 seconds, and claimed at least 3,000 casualties, 59 of which were deaths. At least 38 people were killed when the quake caused the collapse of the upper level of the two-tiered Nimitz freeway onto the lower half. Physical damage was estimated at well over $1 billion.

Dalai Lama Gets the Prize

The Norwegian Nobel Prize Committee announced in October that it had awarded its Peace Prize to the Dalai Lama, age 54, the exiled religious and political leader of Tibet. For nearly 40 years he had symbolized the resistance of the people of Tibet to rule by the Chinese, who had dominated Tibet since the 1950's.

Bicentennial Summit

The leaders of the seven major noncommunist nations of the world convened for their annual summit in Paris, where they celebrated the 200th anniversary of the storming of the Bastille on July 14th. Thirty-three heads of government were present as more than one million people crowded the Champs-Elysees for a parade. The summit leaders endorsed aid to reforming Eastern European nations and called for a new emphasis on the protection of the environment.

Earthquake Interrupts World Series

Even the hugely popular World Series can take a back seat to nature. In this case, the third game between the San Francisco Giants and the Oakland Athletics was canceled after a major earthquake struck the area minutes before the game. Seeing no reason to cancel the series altogether, however, the teams decided to reschedule the game.

LeMond Pulls Ahead

American cyclist Greg LeMond, who became the first American to ever win the Tour de France bicycle race in 1986, came from being 50 seconds behind to win again in 1989. Those who witnessed it said the finish was spectacular.

Rose Banned

Pete Rose, a baseball legend, was banned for life from the game after a report was issued stating that Rose had illegally been involved in gambling. Rose reportedly bet on games, including those of the team he managed, the Cincinnati Reds. During his playing career, Rose made more base hits than any other player in the history of the game. He was considered a Cincinnati hero.

Jordan a Hero

In a poll representing a cross of high school students across the United States, Chicago Bulls star Michael Jordan was selected as the individual in public life that they admired most. Jordan, who is known for his cleancut and charitable off-court image as well as his stellar on-court performance, seems a logical choice.

Balance is that steady middle ground that is so difficult to find. It is the result of careful, measured steps, of keeping all priorities smoothly arranged new ideas which threaten to New priorities are created among the older ones. Maina static process but a dyfaces the challenge of keep-ing a balance. Where the people and the events dedent's life is for each stu-dent to decide. The experience of high school, though. must not be overlooked as part of a transition to a wider world and as part of a balanced life.
